Notes:

RA9262 is also known as the "Anti-Violence Against Women and their children (VAWC) Act of 2004." It is an act defining violence against women and their children, providing for protective measures for victims, prescribing penalties therefore, and for other purposes.

Violence against women is defined as an act of gender-based violence that results in, or is likely to result in, physical, sexual, or psychological harm or suffering to women, including threats of such acts, coercion or arbitrary deprivation of liberty, whether occurring in public or in private life. It encompasses all forms of violation of women's rights, including threats and reprisals, exploitation, harassment, and other forms of control
